Consider Greg Peters, preaching before the homeless crowd in the city park, where he gives out coffee, water, clothes, and free Bibles every Wednesday morning. Greg is a sixty year-old man who once was homeless himself. He lived in the underground city of New York for seventeen years. Greg was not always homeless; he was once a very stylish and successful young multimillionaire financier, the owner of Peters Financial Investment Corporation, the tenth richest company in the nation. He was married to his wife Barbara for five years, and they a beautiful one-year old daughter named Heather. They lived in a gated million-dollar mansion in New York and had many prominent friends in high places. Greg and Barbara had every luxury a person could ever want, but Greg had a dark enemy within . . . an antagonist that was about to arise early one morning in October of 1929, through a private organization he created called STP. This is his story.
