Excerpt from The American Family: A Sociological Problem Ome, around which cluster charms and attrae tions of love and living, where the real and ideal may ever meet, is said to be the word, the sweetest and richest to the American mind. But home means simply the family in its nest, its abiding place, though plain and humble, where all gather, eat, sleep, and have their common livelihood, breathing an ambient air, radiant with many tinted hues of cheering, inspiring love. Love makes the home the garden of Eden, with its rivers, trees, and ?owers, and every grace and mark of beauty that nature can afford, but intertwined with love, as a twin ele ment to make up the family, is livelihood, wherein arise the claims of hunger, appetite and bodily needs, the thorns and thistles to be rid of, by the sweat of thy face. Out of the garden of love at least for a while, must Adam go to toil. About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books.
