Russell Sage Foundation, United States, 2015. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 224 x 152 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Health care spending in the United States today is approaching 20 percent of GDP, yet levels of U.S. population health have been declining for decades relative to other wealthy and even some developing nations. How is it possible that the United States, which spends more than any other nation on health care and insurance, now has a population markedly less healthy than those of many other nations? Sociologist and public health expert James S. House analyzes this paradoxical crisis, offering surprising new explanations for how and why the United States has fallen into this trap. In order to rein in spending and improve population health, we need to refocus health policy from the supply side which makes more and presumably better health care available to more...
