Years Saw us together--happy--heart-full boon--Oh God! the difference twixt those hours and Ink. Brass. In many men (and to the generous-hearted the reflection is a bitter one), time will be found. sooner or later, to have completely mastered memory. The images impressed upon the mind may, from various causes, have been either too faintly received at first, or easily over-run by others, that have followed. Thus, a landscape, we have, at an earlier period of our lives, gazed upon, daily, may, on our afterwards attempting to recall it, start up before us a mere confused and indefinite mass of mountain, wood, and water. The harmony of colouring, the nicety of arrangement, the beauty of apposition, or the enhancing powers of light, and shade, impressions once so vividly our own, that we may have nursed the hope of their never...
