Xulon Press, United States, 2011. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .When Sarah Breeden met Hugo Liborio, it seemed like a match made in heaven. Their courtship, marriage, and journey to the mission field in the Dominican Republic couldn't have been a more perfect love story. God's approval and blessing were written all over their lives. Then, the unthinkable happened. God chose to take Hugo home at the age of 29, long before the couple had done all the kingdom work they had planned to do together. But Sarah believed God had left her on earth for a reason. This is her remarkable story of hope, healing, and the glory that can come from tragedy. Sarah Liborio lovingly recounts how a prince came and won her heart, honored her as his queen, and, through their relationship and his tragic death, steeled her to handle the challenges and battles inherent with a thriving spiritual life. --John Humphrey, Director of Communications, I am Second It is good read even for men, macho men, who do not like to sit and read. --Ron Bishop, Founder of SCORE International Sarah is a courageous Christ-follower whose story shows God's power at work through love, loss, and everything in between. . . --Ellen Vaughn, New York Times bestselling author and Christian speaker About the Author: Sarah Liborio is a full-time missionary for SCORE International (living and serving in the Dominican Republic. Her passion is working with women's ministries including one-on-one discipleships, and a prostitution ministry called Lily House. Her greatest ministry, however, and most challenging, to boot, is raising and discipling her two amazing children, Mattias and Layla. She prays daily that God will use her to help them grow to be strong followers...
