The ornithologist could profitably spend a month there, in lieu of a couple of days. To these fascinat ing regions we set sail with two days provisions, securely packed by Mrs. Legge, sen., and her daughter. With Mr. H. W. Legge again at the helm we sped on our way for a couple of hours, landing a short distance Up a rivulet which took its source in the back hills. After a couple of miles of walking and climbing, we arrived at our camp, which we christened lyre-bird Retreat. It consisted of two humpies roughly built by...
