Excerpt from Highways Green Book: Third Annual Edition, 1922 O combine in one volume a compendium of the outstanding highway activities of the past year and a forecast of the future is the Object of the Highways Green Book. Doubtless the most noteworthy highway achievement of 1921 was the passage of the Federal Highway Act which for the first time confines Federal aid road funds to a definite system of inter state and inter-county roads comprising not over seven per cent of the total mileage in each State and which at the same time provides at the suggestion Of President Harding, a plan by which these roads are to be adequately maintained. Thus the most important milestone in our highway history has been passed. Unusual progress was made last year in the matter Of highway research and highway engineering and transport education. Forward legislation in a number of States looking to more efficient administration of highway affairs, a larger measure Of centralized control and greater revenues from bond issues and taxation has been adopted. These subjects and many others of...
