Createspace Independent Publishing Platform, United States, 2015. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Feeling that God had called him to write a book about Lubbock, A.D. Rose was reluctant to undertake such a daunting task. He resisted and postponed as long as he could. His wife Margaret was in ill health and didn't feel like being away from home. He would not go without her. After months of procrastination, A.D. knew that he would have no peace until he made an effort to write about Lubbock. Margaret agreed to go with him in spite of her many health problems. The Roses prayed for guidance. There was still doubt in their minds about the project as they prayed. Blessed Mother, if you want us to write this book, give us something to write about. Show us some miracles that have taken place there. They were searching for miracles that had happened to others. There were several published reports about healing miracles, as well as rumors that people talked about without knowing names or other details. Interviews continued for about a week. On the last day they experienced a healing miracle greater than anything they had hoped for.
