The commission consisting of Lemuel Shattuck of Boston, Nathaniel P. Banks, Jr., of Waltham and Jehiel Abbot of Westfield, made an extensive investigation of all causes affecting favorably or unfavorably the health of the inhabitants of the Commonwealth, and the following year submitted a report to the Legislature. This report is the best public document ever written in Massachusetts, and one of the great documents of the world. It includes specific recommendations for legislation leading to a more efficient control of the factors influencing the health of communities and individuals. In its introduction the report contains the following statement: - We believe that the conditions of perfect health, either public or personal, are seldom or never attained, though attainable; - that the average length of human life may be very much extended, and its physical power greatly augmented; - that in every year, within this Commonwealth, thousands of lives are lost which might have been saved; - that tens of thousands of cases of sickness occur which might have been prevented; - that a vast amount of unnecessarily impaired health and physical debility exists among those not actually confined by sickness; - that these preventable evils require an enormous expenditure and loss of money, and impose upon the people unnumbered and immeasurable calamities, pecuniary, social, physical, mental and...
