FBC LTD, 2018. Paperback. Condition: New. Language: English . Brand New Book ***** Print on Demand *****.Excerpt from Fruit Situation: November 1980 In response to seasonal declines in citrus supplies, September s index of prices received by growers for fresh and processing fruit advanced to 213 up percent from August, but still percent below a year earlier. Nevertheless, grower prices are expected to fall seasonally during the fourth quarter and stay below year-earlier levels, reflecting the larger supplies of both citrus and non citrus. Although most retail fresh fruit prices will also decline seasonally during october-december, they will remain above last year because of the ris ing costs of marketing. Even so, relative to the retail prices of other foods, fruit will be a good buy. The October 1 forecast of the citrus crop indicates a record million short tons - Dominating the citrus scene is the prospect of another record orange crop, 276 million boxes, up 1 percent from last season s all-time high. Production in Florida, at 203 million boxes, is 2 percent below last season s record crop but still 24 percent above Prospective orange production in California is set at a record 65 million boxes, 9 percent more than last season. Pro duction in Texas is expected to increase 39 percent from last season s small crop, but output in Arizona will probably be down 20 percent.
