Meantime the road in front of the tavern was blocked with villagers waiting and hoping for a glimpse of the great man. But he kept his room, and did not appear. None but Ferguson, Jake Parker the blacksmith, and Ham Sandwich had any luck. These enthusiastic admirers of the great scientific detective hired the taverns detained-baggage lockup, which looked into the detectives room across a little alleyway ten or twelve feet wide, ambushed themselves in it, and cut some peep-holes in the window-blind. Mr. Holmess blinds were down; but by-and-by he raised them. It gave the spies a hair-lifting but pleasurable thrill to find themselves face to face with the Extraordinary Man who had filled the world with the fame of his more than human ingenuities. There he sat not a myth, not a shadow, but real, alive, compact of substance, and almost within touching distance with the hand. Look at that head! said Ferguson, in an awed voice. By gracious! thats a head! You bet! said the blacksmith, with deep reverence. Look at his nose! look at his...
